Change multiple reports. For the first time, the quest to make targeted, precise changes across multiple reports can become a reality. Use .rpt Inspector's™ technique called GROUPING to make changes to any individual report detail across any number of reports. Make a change to a text field, like your company name, and nothing else will move or change. You are empowered by the ability to make quick, focused, precise changes across multiple reports. .rpt Inspector's™ editing features will shave hours off your current reports editing process.

Standardize reports.

.rpt Inspector™ makes it easy to standardize any aspect of your reports. Let's say your legal department has changed the company disclaimer that appears in the footer section of all your reports.

Without .rpt Inspector™ you must open "each" report to update the disclaimer. With .rpt Inspector™ you change all the disclaimers, in all the footers, all at the same time. Just target the disclaimer text, in as many reports as you select for the update, and make the change. It's that quick and easy. Just 6 painless steps. Target any of the hundreds of object properties to make specific, focused changes to any or all of your reports.

Find report errors. Step up and compare reports and/or single out very detailed information using .rpt Inspector's™ grouping technique. For example, a group of reports may utilize a specific formula with the same name. Several of your reports are giving strange data that doesn't agree with the majority. By sorting and grouping on the formula name you can now view every report using that formula and compare the formula syntax for accuracy. If an error is found it can be corrected in minutes. Use this feature to audit, debug, or find and correct errors in all your reports.

Cost Effective. .rpt Inspector™ typically pays for itself the first time you use it. The price of the product is usually less than the time cost for you to make one small change the old way.

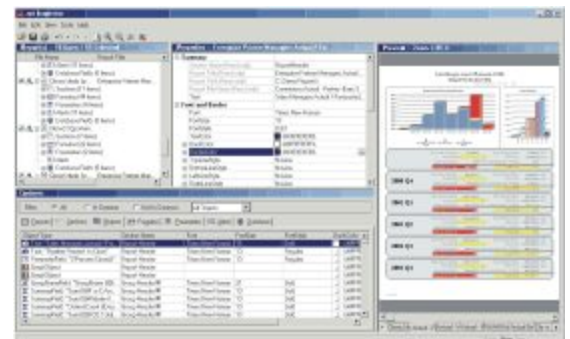

Maintain accuracy. Focus on the specific properties that you actually want to change and preserve the accuracy of all your reports.

Never again will you accidentally move the text while selecting a change and completely disrupt a report. Stay on the path with .rpt Inspector™ and change only the targeted items, never affecting any other aspect of the report.

"My company just went through a merger. The subsequent name change gave my staff weeks of work in order to standardize all the disparate reports...this type of change will be much easier with .rpt Inspector. Thanks for sharing the evaluation copy with [my company]."

Boston
